The university's Gender Equality Education Committee cooperates with the gender-inclusive and queer committees to organize training and activities, as well as LGBTQ support groups, to ensure that students who have been disadvantaged by unreasonable or differential treatment due to their gender, gender characteristics, gender identity, and/or sexual orientation are able to experience support, recognition, and companionship on campus.

In order to assist students who are disadvantaged by unreasonable and differential treatment due to their gender, gender characteristics, gender identity, and/or sexual orientation, the university's Student Counseling and Counseling Center hired full-time and part-time psychologists to provide meetings and counseling sessions regarding gender and emotional issues. In 2021, the center arranged 23 sessions on sexual issues (including gender, gender characteristics, gender identity, sexual orientation, sexual harassment, and sexual bullying) and 68 sessions on gender-related violence.
